Senator Says Thousands of Tons Pass to Canada While New York State People are Suffering for Lack of it or Pay Exorbitant Prices.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 1.—A resolution introduced today by Senator Ferris, Republican, of Essex county, would call upon State Fuel Administrator George W. Goethals to impound any coal found in transit in New York state, in such quantities as to assure the citizens an adequate supply.

Ferris said thousands of tons of coal were in transit to Canada, while the people of New York state were suffering for want of it, or being forced to pay extortionate prices.

The resolution was referred to the finance committee.

J. & D. WINS MOTION FOR NONSUIT

Work at Grand Gorge, Where Floyd Chase Received Fatal Injuries, In Intrastate Nature and Doesn't Come Under Federal Law Cited in Administrator's Action.

Judgment has been entered in the office of the clerk of Delaware county, under the order made by the Hon. John C. Rhodes, justice of the supreme court at the Binghamton special term, granting the motion of the defendant, The Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company, for a nonsuit.

The action was brought by Ora Tullith, administrator of the estate of Floyd Chase, deceased, growing out of injuries sustained by Floyd Chase, while an employee of the railroad company, which resulted in his death.

The accident in question happened on May, last, in the vicinity of Grand Gorge, Delaware county, the work train upon which the deceased was employed having come in collision with a coal train. He, together with five other employees, was killed.

The plaintiff sought to bring the action within the Federal Employer's Liability Act, and damage was claimed in the sum of $50,000.

The railroad company contended that the claim was within the Workmen's Compensation Act of the state of New York.

The action came on for trial in October, last, before the Hon. Theodore Tullith, justice of the supreme court, and a jury at the Delaware county term at Delhi, N. Y.

The court submitted two questions to the jury, as to whether the employees of the railroad company were negligent, and, second, the amount of damage, if any, that accrued to the widow of the deceased by reason of the injury resulting in his death.

The court rendered decision upon the defendant's motion for a nonsuit, and the jury answered the question bearing upon the negligence of the railroad company in the affirmative, and fixed the damage at $50,000.

Following the close of the October trial term, Justice Tullith, as taken ill and died before deciding the question of law in the case.

The Hon. Leon C. Rhodes was appointed successor by Governor Miller and the matter was brought on before him by hearing by order to show cause, obtained by the railroad company.

Justice Rhodes's decision granting the nonsuit is based upon the finding that the work which the deceased was employed in at the time of his death, was an intrastate character and that his representative cannot maintain an action under the Federal Employer's Liability Act, and that the widow of deceased must seek her remedy through the Workmen's Compensation Act of this state.

The plaintiff was represented by Joseph A. Shay, Esq., New York attorney, with offices in the Knickerbocker Building, Broadway and 42nd street, New York city. The defendant railroad company was represented by Harry H. Flemming.

AUTO SHOW SPACE ALLOTTED

But May Be Revised Later—Big Armory Exhibit Dates Are March 15, 16 and 17.

A session of the Automotive Dealers' Association lasting until 11 o'clock and smoking up the Y. M. C. A. parlor so that it looked as though soft coal was being burned in a furnace with a leaky flue, disclosed little besides the fact that a hundred cars cannot be crowded in a space that will hold only 59. Space allotments were made, but may be subject to further change. The only thing sure is that the show will be held March 15, 16 and 17 and that, in the end, according to President Millard, whose prophecies have never yet failed, "everybody will be happy and satisfied," including those who attend the show.

Soliciting advertising for the program is going on, one member of the committee having secured nine pages. It was explained that he had "worked like the devil and done more than all the rest of us." Designs for tickets were examined, admired and approved.

The assemblage went on record in opposition to a bill requiring a bill of sale to be executed before a notary and recorded in the county clerk's office every time an automobile is sold, and the merry ha-ha was given a New Yorker who wants every dealer to chip in $10 to help him form a state association of dealers.

Whether music shall be by six pieces playing seven hours or by seven pieces playing six hours was discussed for half an hour and left up in the air.

SNOW REMOVAL COST $15,000

The snowfalls of January have cost the city $15,000 in snow removal bills and the work is not yet completed, although the majority of the streets are now passable.

The extra help employed during the progress of the work has been laid off, and the street force is now practically back to normal size. Work on removing snow is still under way and will be continued until completed.

ICE SANDWICH ON PEARL STREET

Kaufman Ready To Harvest Ice For Creamery After All-Winter Battle Which Ended With Ice Too Heavy To Handle.

The veteran ice harvester Frank Kaufman, who has charge of the harvesting and storing of ice in the two big houses of the Kingston creamery, announces that he will be ready for the men and teams on Monday. Mr. Kaufman has had a strenuous time in preparing the company's pond at the end of Pearl street for the final work of harvesting, mostly because of the frequent snow storms. When winter set in the pond lacked over two feet of being full, there having been no fall rains. The first cold spell froze the ice about three inches. A snow storm put five inches of snow on top of this. Kaufman with a force of men punched holes in the ice which flooded the snow. The freeze up that followed covered the pond with eight inches of ice. Then came another snow storm and still another, with sufficient rain to practically fill up the pond, floating the ice and surrounding it with a margin of water from six to twenty feet wide. Nothing daunted, Kaufman built a bridge from the land to the ice and then turning snow scrapers upside down flattened and packed down the snow which he again flooded. Another freeze up put three inches of ice on top leaving a mush of snow-water four inches thick between the top and bottom ice, or in other words making a huge ice sandwich. More snow on top delayed further freezing and drifted seven feet of snow in the quarter of a mile road leading to the pond, making access to it impossible. The city then began clearing the streets of snow taking every available team and all the men managed to procure sufficient help to dig out the road and scrape the pond again. Last Saturday the ice was nearly eighteen inches thick, too heavy to handle. On Monday he began to plane off five or six inches. Mr. Kaufman declares in the thirty years he has harvested ice, this has been the most strenuous he has ever experienced. The pond is now ready and he fondly hopes with the teams and men released from the city streets, to have a long string of teams passing through Pearl street to the creamery, beginning Monday, for the next two weeks, with ice that will command the admiration of all who see it.

OBEEDIENCE TO LAW PREVENTS BAD WRECK

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Sidney, Jan. 30.—Strict obedience to the state law and presence of mind on the part of Engineer McMullen in charge of a locomotive drawing a passenger train between Oswego and New York, prevented what might have been a disastrous wreck in the Northfield tunnel between Merriekville and Walton.

As his train entered the tunnel, McMullen, who is a native of Sidney, turned on his headlight, as required by law, and immediately noticed that something was wrong ahead. He stopped the train with the emergency brakes and investigation showed that 140 tons of rock and earth had fallen from the roof of the tunnel to the tracks. It took nearly eight hours to get the rock out of the way.

A Correction.

In the report of Judge Garbette's address to the Rotary Club, on another page of The Freeman today, the number of fares given in the next to the last paragraph should be 8,000,000 instead of 1,000,000 as printed.

GROUNDHOG WILL SLEEP ON FRIDAY

Isn't Fool Enough To Leave His Burrow So Early—First Settlers Here Couldn't Find Badger So They Tacked Barbarous Legend on Woodchuck.

Friday, February 2.—groundhog day which has been appearing annually since 542 A. D., will be here again and it has been written about so many times it is hard to begin a story about it. To make it easier a good way is to state that Friday will be Candlemas Day, and sidetrack the misleading woodchuck for a few moments and impart some ecclesiastical information.

From the time of Justinian, specifically from the year of our Lord 542, ground hog day—that is, February 2—has been celebrated as the feast of the Purification of the Virgin. Its popular name of Candlemas Day is derived from the consecration on that day of candles that are to be used during the year for ecclesiastical purposes.

In Rome it is customary for the Pope to officiate in person at the religious services celebrating this festival. It is he who blesses the candles and afterward he distributes them to the lesser dignitaries of the church according to the precedence of their rank.

Nobody knows who first mixed up weather prophecy with Candlemas Day, but the thing was rife in Europe long before the settlement of America. As the festival occurs at the peak of the winter, superstitious peasants in all countries doubtless thought it a suitable day for weather seers to do some scrying, and somehow the legend grew up that it was a bad sign for the sun to shine on Candlemas Day, meaning forty days more winter, whereas, if the day was gloomy it signified that winter was almost over.

If Candlemas Day be fair and bright, Winter will have another flight; But if Candlemas Day brings clouds and rain, Winter's gone and won't come again.

An then they got up a story about the badger coming out of his hole on Candlemas Day, and early settlers brought the yarn to this country and fastened it on the groundhog, or woodchuck or whatever you like to call it. Some people think it was an Indian legend, but that's a horrible calumny on the noble red man. It was the overbearing whites who seriously believed that if the groundhog saw his shadow on February 2 he would go back into his hole for six more weeks of winter, whereas if he could not see his shadow he would make preparations for an early spring.

Woodsmen who have taken the trouble to put the matter to a practical test say they have discovered that the woodchuck never leaves his burrow as early as February 2, rain or shine.

START ANOTHER MINE FIELD WAR

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 1.—Another intensive effort to organize the non-union miners of Logan county, West Virginia, will be attempted by District No. 17 of the United Mine Workers of America. It was announced today by the American Civil Liberties Union, which is co-operating with the miners in efforts to secure "freedom of speech and assembly" in that section.

The last attempt to organize the field resulted in a protracted civil war of federal troops. More than 100 persons were killed during the fighting that time.

WATERPOWER BILLS TO FAIL

Republican Program to Win in Assembly, Smith's in Senate, and Then Both Will Die.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 1.—From present indications virtually no waterpower legislation of any importance will be passed at the present session of the state legislature.

The answer in politics, according to those who have been closely watching the lawmakers during the month they have been in session.

Governor Smith is in dead earnest about his proposed waterpower legislation, but there is every reason to believe now it will strike a snag because of the Republican majority in the assembly. The governor says there is absolutely no reason why the state cannot develop its almost unlimited waterpower resources, and sell the electrical energy direct to the small user in every part of the state at a greatly reduced price from what is now being paid.

The Republicans in the assembly are opposed to the governor's proposed plan, and so they are going to adopt a waterpower policy of their own—not that they expect it will get anywhere—but then they will have something on which to hang a fight against the governor's legislation.

There is no doubt that the governor's waterpower legislation will be passed in the senate, and the Republicans probably will pass their proposed legislation in the assembly. Then the fight will start—and the probable outcome will be the killing of both measures.

The Republicans are inclined to look with favor on the McGinnis-Graves waterpower bill of 1919, which would have the state develop the power through the conservation commissioner, but would not permit the sale of it directly to the consumer. Some parts of this measure meet with the approval of Governor Smith, but on the whole he wants the state to develop, control, and lease waterpower.

The governor will get down to work on his special waterpower message the latter part of this week, and it may be submitted to the lawmakers next week. The administration hopes it will be able to find enough Republicans in the assembly, who hail from up-state cities, to "put it across." But the Republicans who are opposed to the governor's plan, say this can't be done.

As soon as bills carrying out the governor's waterpower program are introduced, it is expected Speaker Machold will call a conference of the Republicans in the assembly, and that waterpower will then be made a party measure. This would bind all of the 81 Republicans to vote against the administration measures.

In the meantime the Republicans are whipping their proposed program into shape in the hope of getting it introduced in both houses before the governor's bills are ready for introduction.

PRICE-BOOSTING OIL WAR IS ON

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Pittsburgh, Feb. 1.—Standard Oil today boosted Pennsylvania, Southwestern New York and West Virginia grades of oil from 10 to 25 cents a barrel at the wells. This boost is another step in the price-boosting war between Standard Oil and the independents. A new style of quotation went into effect today and Standard quotes prices handled by its various subsidiary pipe line companies rather than by grades as heretofore.

New York transit is advanced 25 cents to $3.80. The following four companies' crude runs are boosted a dime to $3.65. It is really being the Pennsylvania grade of crude: National Transit, Southwestern Pipe Line, Eureka Pipe Line and Buckeye Pipe Line.

The following three grades are advanced 10 cents and new prices are: Cabell, $2.51; Somerset heavy, $2.30; Somerset light, $2.55.

Regard and Corning grades are unchanged.

POPE APPEALS FOR PEACE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, Feb. 1.—Alarmed over the Ruhr situation and the possibility of war resulting from French invasion of Germany, Pope Pius XI today issued an appeal for pacification.

As exclusively told by International News Service a week ago, the pope is deeply anxious over conditions in Central Europe. He fears not only war, but a red wave of Bolshevism in Germany. He has conferred upon the Rhineland situation with members of the Vatican government and expressed the view that mediation should be attempted when the opportunity offered.

It is understood however, that the pontiff believed that there was no opening during the first fortnight of French invasion.

HEADS FALL IN SMITH'S BASKET

Smith Makes Many Appointments—Republican Heads Fall as Gilchrist Takes Over Law's Duties.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 1.—A score or more of important appointments in the state tax commission, are expected shortly by John F. Gilchrist of New York, who today took up the duties of president of the state tax commission, succeeding Walter W. Law, Jr., of Westchester, ousted by Governor Smith.

The governor will leave for New York this afternoon, where it is expected, he will definitely decide on the new member of tax commission. It was reported at the capitol today that William Church Osborn does not want the job.

One of the first appointments Mr. Gilchrist is expected to make, will be a successor to James S. Y. Evans as head of the state tax income bureau.

Resignation of Bert Lord, the Republican head of the Motor Vehicle Bureau, is expected shortly.

NEW PALTZ BUS STILL SNOWBOUND

The New Paltz-Kingston bus line is still unable to get through to New Paltz owing to the drifted condition of the road, and is only running as far as Perine's Bridge. Another effort to get through to New Paltz will be made Friday. As far as can be learned, the town authorities of New Paltz have made no effort to open the road to Kingston.

EXPOSURE KILLED HURLEY INFANT

District Attorney Traver, in the absence of Coroner Conner, made an investigation of the mysterious death of the three months old child of Jack Brown at Hurley. Dr. E. H. Loughran and Henry Van Hoeynberg visited the Brown home and after an examination came to the conclusion that the child had died of exposure. Mr. Conner was later notified and took charge of the body.

As stated Wednesday, Brown and a woman known as his wife reside in the so-called Smith mansion at Hurley. Tuesday night Mrs. Brown left the house and went to a neighbor's, where she stayed all night, and in the morning her husband notified her to come home as the baby was dead. Neighbors reported the matter to the district attorney who ordered an investigation.

MANY ATTRACTIONS AT CHARITY BALL

The night of the Knights of Columbus charity ball approaches: the ball is for the benefit of the worthy poor of Ulster county for which everybody that possibly can turns out, lending not merely their names, but their presence, too, and all in "Sweet charity's name."

The Knights of Columbus reap no benefit nor do they get one cent for their own use from the money made at these balls. The armory will be elaborately decorated and with the beautifully gowned ladies and their escorts, the gayly trimmed booths, the splendid entertainment and the excellent numbers as rendered by the Imperial Orchestra of this city and the New York Band, it will not only present a pretty picture, but will be a very merry dance.

There will be flowers in abundance on sale—and how much they add to the beauty of the occasion—pretty coronas for the ladies and boutonnières for the gentlemen. Then, too, smokes of all kinds will be offered for a nominal sum—your own favorite brand may be secured.

When one wants to sit out a dance, there's the refreshment booth to visit, where one may enjoy a delicious repast and at the same time watch the graceful dancers.

Special Session of Supervisors.

A special meeting will be held by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, at the rooms in the court house, Monday evening, February 12, at 7:30 o'clock, being called to provide an appropriation for the construction of the Saugerties-Paleville highway and to approve maps, plans and specifications; also to transact such other business that may be introduced.

SENATOR LUSK MAKES OBJECTION BASED ON "HIGHWAYS AND HIGHWAY MEN," AN ANONYMOUSLY PRINTED ARTICLE OF WHICH COL. GREENE WAS THE AUTHOR.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 1.—Immediate confirmation of Gov. Smith's appointment of Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene as state highway commissioner to succeed Herbert S. Sisson, was blocked in the senate today by Senator Lusk, Republican leader.

Lusk based his objection on an article which he said Col. Greene wrote, appearing in a weekly publication last May, and entitled "Highways and Highway Men."

"It ridiculed the people, reflected on the highway department, and was clearly derogatory of the members of the senate," said Senator Lusk. "If true, the senators are not fit to sit, and if not true, Colonel Greene is not fit to serve as highway commissioner."

Senator Lusk asked that the appointment be referred to the finance committee and that he be given an opportunity to examine Colonel Greene before the committee, concerning the article.

Senator Walker, Democratic leader, asserted that under the law, the senate had no power to call Colonel Greene before the finance committee. "Let's confirm him," he added, "then we will have the right to send for him for he will then be a state official. That's my suggestion to work this thing out pleasantly."

Senator Downing, chairman of the finance committee, declared if the committee voted to examine Colonel Greene, he would have no objection, but he said the committee had no power to subpoena. Senator Downing called attention to the fact that the article was not signed by Colonel Greene.

When Governor Smith's attention was called to the holding up of the confirmation of Colonel Greene in the senate, he remarked:

"That's small town politics."

The senate confirmed the reappointment of John C. York of Brooklyn, as manager of the Kings Park Hospital, and of William H. Porter of New York, and Fred C. Sutro of Boundbrook, N. J., as members of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission.

The appointment of Evelyn Vaux of New York as a manager of the Kings Park State Hospital, was referred to the finance committee.

LUSK LAWS ARE TO BE RETAINED

Republicans in Assembly Decide to Defeat Another of Governor Smith's Recommendations.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Republicans in the assembly, it was learned today, have decided to defeat the Downing-McKee bills, aimed to repeal the Lusk anti-sedition laws.

It had generally been believed the Democrats in the legislature would be able to muster enough Republican votes to repeal the Lusk laws.

Assemblyman F. S. Cole, Republican of Herkimer, chairman of the education committee in the assembly, will lead the fight against repeal of the laws. If Mr. Cole has his way, his committee will not even report out the McKee bills.

For every speaker at yesterday's hearing on the bills to repeal the Lusk laws, who wanted the laws left on the statute books, there were three who urged their repeal.

Because of the Democratic majority in the senate, it is expected the repeal bills will be passed in the upper house.

One of the recommendations made by Governor Smith in his message to the lawmakers, was that Lusk laws be wiped off the statute books.

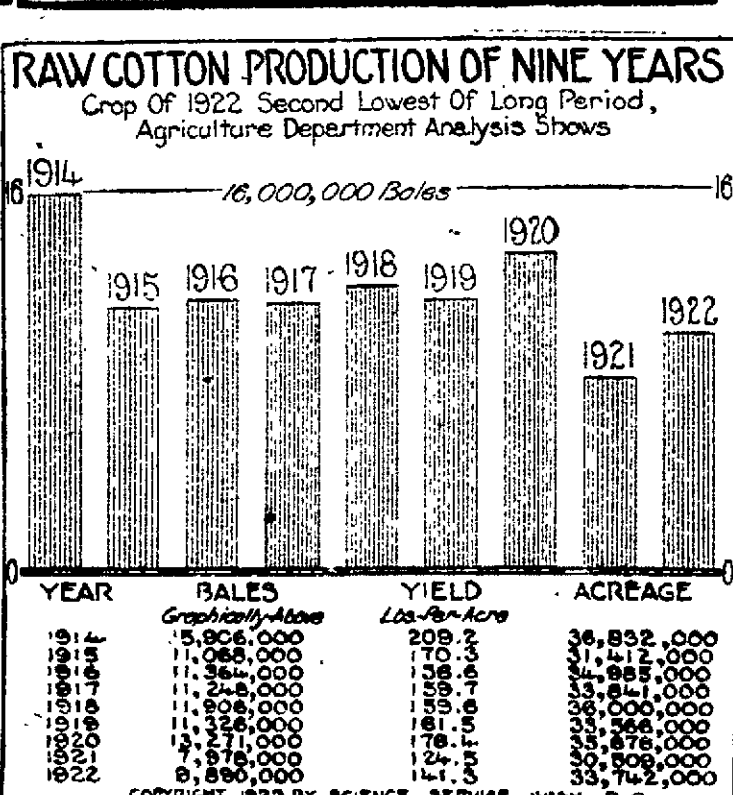

PUPPIES OF HIGH DEGREE IN WARREN'S WINDOW

The Takalon Collie Kennels of West Hurley, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Brownings, have on exhibition in the show windows of the C. A. Warren sporting goods store on Fair street, four of their imported Canadian stock collie pups. The puppies are of championship stock and attract the attention of all passers-by. A number of these blooded collies have been sold to Kingston dog fanciers and during the summer months the kennels, which are located about seven miles from Kingston on the Woodstock-West Hurley road, are visited by a large number of people. The Takalon kennels have exhibited at the dog shows at Poughkeepsie, Philadelphia, Madison Square Garden and at many of the other large dog shows. A number of the ribbons won by this kennel are also shown in the Warren window. The Takalon Kennels have twenty grown dogs at their place at West Hurley and have shipped pups to various parts of the country. The playful antics of the four little fellows in the window furnish much amusement for the passing public.

BUSINESS DAY BY DAY as the Government sees it

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

The Robins had come North very early, a number of the dearest little robins ever seen.

They had had a most beautiful winter in the lovely sunny South and they told everyone that it was the nicest winter they had ever had.

"Everything was so lovely there," they said.

Now, among the robins were two dear little ones, a smart, stylish Mr. Robin and a most attractive Miss Robin.

Miss Robin admired Mr. Robin and Mr. Robin admired Miss Robin.

But neither knew that the other was so admiring. Each feared that they would not have their love returned.

Mr. Robin hardly dared tell Miss Robin of his love, as he was so afraid she would tell him she did not love him, and he knew that if she did tell him that it would break his little robin heart.

But still he must ask her, for if he didn't ask her he'd never know, and he felt he must know.

Besides, it might be better news than he thought. She might tell him she loved him, too.

He didn't see how she could, for she was so much sweeter and nicer than he was, he thought. But still he hoped she'd think he was nice.

And she didn't think that it could ever be so wonderful as to hear that he loved her. She hoped he did, but she was afraid that he wouldn't, for he was so much sweeter and nicer, she thought.

At last, one morning, Mr. Robin said he could stand it no longer. He must ask her that very day.

"Why, I came up very early, with those who traveled that this year, because she was in that group of travelers, and yet I haven't been brave enough to ask her."

"They told me it had been a mild winter and that there had been but little cold and that it would be sure, but it was not that I was afraid of the cold. They wouldn't have tried to make me feel so comfortable about that."

"That wasn't what I was worrying about. I was only thinking that if I didn't leave, then some other Mr. Robin might ask Miss Robin to be his bride, and she might accept. And I haven't asked her yet."

He took a bath, smoothed his feathers and set forth. And Miss Robin greeted him shyly, but most graciously, he thought. And then he burst into song and poetry, and this is what he said:

"Chirp, chirp," said little Mr. Robin.

"And will you be my mate?"

"Chirp, chirp," he said again to her.

"I hope I'm not too late."

"Chirp, chirp," said little Mr. Robin.

"I'll sing and build and work."

"And, though I have no riches."

"My duty I'll not shirk."

Then Miss Robin answered in a song and in verse.

"Chirp, chirp," said little Miss Robin.

"I'm certainly all a-flutter."

"For I've admired you from afar."

"And now my love thoughts I may utter."

"Ah, handsome Robin Redbreast."

"It's true you have no wealth."

"But you have what means so much more."

"You've kindness, joy and health."

Then all the birds gathered together and they, too, sang and made verses. I'll have to describe their coming to verse, too:

The birds all came from near and far.

And this is what they said:

"We congratulate each one of you."

"And are glad that you are wed."

"You have come North very early."

"But none too soon, we say."

"For you've come in the lover's season."

"As this is St. Valentine's Day."

So Mr. and Miss Robin were married, and set up housekeeping in the dear old Apple Tree, and were happy as happy could be. So happy were they that they made every one around them happy, too, by the happiness that seemed to be wherever they were:

"Now," said the teacher. "If I say, 'I must leave as I have an engagement—' by the way, what is the time?"

I place a dash after engagement because the sentence is broken off abruptly."

At that moment she caught sight of the dozing boy.

"Now then, Jimmy, you are not listening. What was I saying?" she asked him.

"Please, Miss Smith," said Jimmy, with a start. "You were telling us you said 'dash' because your engagement was broken off abruptly."

SEASONABLE FOODS

A most attractive sauce to serve with cold lamb is Green Olive, Mint Sauce.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar, one-fourth of a cupful of each of orange juice and chopped olives, one tablespoonful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of finely minced mint leaves. Let stand after mixing on the back of the range for an hour. Serve cold.

Lamb, Oriental Style.—Take one pound of the shoulder of lamb, one-fourth of a cupful of chopped onion, one cupful of lamb broth, two cupfuls of canned tomato, two cupfuls of string beans, pepper, salt and six tablespoonfuls of flour. Cut the lamb in two-inch pieces, brown in a hot, well-greased frying pan, then put into a casserole. Put the fresh beans, onion, tomato, salt and broth onto the meat and cook until tender, well covered. Remove the meat and vegetables to the center of the platter; around this place a border of cooked rice and pour the gravy around the rice. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Bread, Cheese and Custard Dish.—This is a good dish for supper or luncheon. Spread slices of bread with a thin coating of butter and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Place the bread in a well buttered baking dish. When bread and cheese sufficient to serve the family is placed pour over it custard, using a pint of milk, two eggs and a bit of salt and paprika. Push the top of the dish thickly with paprika and bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. Serve hot from the dish. Properly baked this dish will be like a puffy omelet.

Chopped Steak on Casserole.—Put two cupfuls of finely chopped steak in a well-buttered casserole, season with celery salt, salt, pepper, mushrooms and tomato catsup or Worcestershire. Surround the steak with rice, pour over two cupfuls of boiling water and bake for an hour and a half in a moderate oven. Keep covered while cooking. Serve with tomato sauce or brown gravy.

TO OBSERVE CANDELMAS AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Friday will be the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary, sometimes called the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, but popularly known as the feast of Candlemas. Besides the spiritual benefits to be derived from the occasion the symbolism peculiar to its solemnities have a tremendous teaching power; and its simplicity touch and win the Christian heart. While a feast of the second class yet it has called forth the devotion of the faithful for many, many centuries.

In Kingston the Church of the Holy Cross has for many years set forth the drama of Candlemas on the eve by the observance of vespers, the blessing and distribution of candles and the Candlemas procession, ancient Candlemas carols of great beauty being sung at intervals through the progress of the service. There will be no sermon preached but at the conclusion of the procession benediction with the Blessed Sacrament will be given. The service will begin promptly at 7:45 o'clock. The musical program will be:

Processional—Cometh a Day

KIWANIS NIGHT OPENS MIDDLETOWN AUTO SHOW

Expressing the hope that in the not distant future the tracks of the Wall-kill Transit Co. in the narrow thor-oughfares of Middletown, would be ripped up and motor bus cars oper-ated on the streets now, little used for vehicular traffic, Mayor Robert Lawrence Tuesday night formally opened the Middletown automobile show before a large confluence of peo-ple. It was Kiwanis night and many members of the club attended.

NEW QUESTION IN COURT OF APPEALS

Whether Legislature Has Power to Repeal Portions of Barge Canal Referendum—Albany and King-ston Industry Affected.

One of the most important cases recently argued before the Court of Appeals and one involving an en-tirely new question upon which that court never has passed was argued Tuesday and was that of William B. Kibbee and others, plaintiffs appellants, against the Canal Board of the state of New York, defend-ants-respondents. The case involves the constitutional power of the Legislature to repeal any portion of the State Barge Canal Referendum without the submission of the repeal-ing act to the people. The plaintiffs for sixty-five years have conducted a large lumber business in the lumber district at Albany. When the Canal Referendum Act was submitted to and approved by the people at the election of November, 1902, it pro-vided that the lock of the existing Erie Canal at its junction with the Hudson river at Albany should be im-proved by the construction of a new lock with a length of 178 feet, between hollow quins, a clear width of 28 feet and minimum depth on miter sills of 11 feet, that the canal prism should be improved by giving it a depth of 12 feet and a minimum width of 55 feet. The state engineer estimated the cost of this improvement at $300,000. Under the approval of the referen-dum, bonds to the amount of $101,000,000 were issued and sold by the state, $300,000 of the amount realized being appropriated to the im-provement of the Albany lumber district lock. The Barge Canal was constructed, but in 1921 the Legis-lature repealed so much of it as provided for the improvement of the Albany lock; upon the passage of that act the canal board instituted proceedings to sell the old Erie Canal in the Albany lumber district with the idea of converting all the property in that region owned by the state to other uses, whereupon the plaintiffs brought an action in the Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the board from proceed-ing with the abandonment of the canal and to compel their compliance with the referendum. Tobin, Wis-wall and Walton appeared for the plaintiffs, the attorney general for the defendants.

All the facts were conceded. The only disputed question was that of the constitutional power of the legisla-ture, the Canal Board claiming the legislature had the power to eliminate the Albany lock, and to amend the referendum without submission to the people the plaintiff claimed it was without such power. The case was presented to Judge Nichols at the Al-bany special term, who in a long opinion decided in favor of the Canal Board, and dismissed the complaint. The plaintiffs appealed to the Appel-late Division which affirmed Judge Nichols' decision. The plaintiffs there-upon appealed to the Court of Ap-peals. The case was argued yester-day by Judge Clearwater for the plaintiffs, and Attorney General Sherman for the Canal Board. Judge Clearwater said that no similar question ever had been passed upon by the Court of Appeals. That the case so far as adjudication was con-cerned, was not only a novel, but an extremely important one. That be-fore the Barge Canal Act could be-come a law its passage was required with certain formalities not pre-scribed, for the passage of ordinary enactments by the legislature, then it went to the people for their approval. If it could be repealed by the legisla-ture except in the manner prescribed by the constitution, the formality of its passage was not apparent, for if the legislature could nullify at will the approval of a referendum its sub-mission to the people would seem to be without reason or necessity, and the provision of the constitution af-fecting its submission without force or effect. That the vote of approval was with the understanding that the act only could be modified in the way specified by the constitution. That it should be remembered that the sub-mission of the referendum to the elec-torate was not alone upon the question of the issuance of bonds for $101,000,000, but upon the far more important question whether the state would or could construct a barge canal, and its construction having been authorized by popular vote, the legislature had exceeded its authority in nullifying any provision of it.

In addition, said Judge Clear-water, the arrogation by legislative bodies of the assumption of power to nullify or modify con-stitutional prohibitions is pro-ceeding in this country at a rapid pace. It has come to pass that if a constitutional prohibition or pro-hibition be distasteful to any con-siderable body, legislative bodies, either congressional or state, will undertake in defiance to what they regard as the wishes of their con-stituents, to change it; that the court readily could see the sinister significance of this modern trend to disregard the provisions of the fun-damental law. Nothing could be more dangerous than to permit a legislature which wished to evade responsibility, to submit a proposi-tion for the expenditure of money, or for some other public pur-pose, to the people and having se-cured their approval, then substan-tially to change or nullify it with-out their consent. "If," said the judge, "I may borrow an expression from a pending theological dispute in matters affecting the constitu-tion, I am a fundamentalist, not a modernist. I think the American people are proceeding too rapidly along the pathway to the Avernian precipice of constitutional nullifica-tion."

The argument was listened to by a crowded court room, many Al-banians being deeply interested in the matter because if the repealing act is held valid, it will end the lumber trade at Albany and divert it to Burlington, Vermont, and to North Tonawanda. In addition to the important question of law, the existence of the lumber trade at Albany amounting to some $30,000,000 annually is involved, and with it is involved important busi-ness and shipping interests of Kingston.

CHURCH FOLK BRAVE STORM FOR CITY HOME SERVICE.

Last Sunday afternoon the peo-ple at the City Home were treated to both an unusual spectacle and a remarkably fine service. It was surely an unusual spectacle to see fully a dozen folks, attendants at choir members and pastor of the English Lutheran Church walking out to the City Home through the severe storm, but that was exactly what happened. Besides the hymns and general singing, Miss Mildred Messinger, contralto, de-lighted her listeners with her sing-ing of "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," by Mac Dougal. Another lovely solo was "Abide With Me," sung by Miss Janet Grimes, soprano. Then there was an anthem, "Jesus Calls Us," by Bullard, that was also very impressive. In addition to the singing, Pastor Nelson preached a short but impressive sermon.

HI-Y STUDY AND BASKETBALL

At the weekly meeting of the HI-Y Club Wednesday night it was decided to hold a sleighload on the evening of February 12. A committee was appointed to take care of the planning of the load.

Before the speaker was introduced, President Stumpf called on Kenneth Hasbrouck, a member of last year's HI-Y and at present a student at R. P. I. Mr. Hasbrouck told several interesting things about the doings at the school, and mentioned the good record the varsity basketball team of the school is making.

The speaker of the evening was Ellis Brown, one of the faculty of the high school and an advisor for the HI-Y Club. His talk was on the means of getting a college education. Mr. Brown said that it is not impossible to get a college education these days. Financial conditions should keep no one from attending college, there are many fellows now working their way through. Those who are particularly bright are not the only ones who are doing it. There is work of different kinds to be done. The most common way of earning a part of the expense is by waiting on table. This is not as hard as it might seem, the waiters are almost always through as soon as the others are finished eating. There are other ways of earning money which are just as profitable, though not quite so easy.

Some get the idea that those who have to work their way do not get the fun out of their course, that the others more fortunate do. This is not true; many of the real big men in college are those who are working at least part of their way. A personal acquaintance of the speaker was president of his classes, a member of the hockey team, known all over the east as one of the best hockey men, a member of the cross-country team and held other positions. There is another objection that is raised, and that is that the prospective student is not capable of doing class work and outside work at the same time. In addition to the work offered, there are scholarships to be had. These are not restricted to the bright students if a fellow gets to college and does good work, if he shows the right spirit toward his school and makes a favorable impression with the fellows, he need never worry about having to go home because his finances are small. If there is no other way to get the money, he can get it from the loan fund, using the money for the four years without interest. Payment is made after the college course has been completed.

The other students have great respect for the fellow who has sand enough to work his way through college. Mr. Brown said that he remembers seeing some of the fellows who waited table, dancing at a college affair in their waiter's coats. One fellow who came to his college was an immigrant whose father and mother could speak no English at all and who found it difficult to make himself understood. He completed his four year course at Hamilton, taking high honors in languages, and then taught school for a year. He was dissatisfied with the work, so went to Harvard with some sixty dollars in his pocket. He has been here a year now, and is making good.

The many different ways in which the fellow may earn his way through college should awaken everyone to taking advantage of the chance.

After the meeting, the discussion Bible study was held and then two games of basketball were played. The results and line-ups were:

Quintettes Won First Half Honors.

In School League, With Dave Long Leading Scorer—Dauntless Wins In Junior Holy Name With Cashin Leading.

Wednesday Schoolboys' League basketball games on St. Mary's court marked the opening of the second half of the schoolboys' championship series. The big hall upstairs has been equipped for a court and stands as one of the best in the city, a rival of the local armory. Because of the open baskets the scores in Wednesday's games were low. White Stars defeated the Tigers 10-2; Quintettes beat the Lions 10-4, and the Eagles nosed out the Star Five 3-0.

In the first half of the championship series the Quintettes won the trophy, having taken the leadership of the league from beginning of the series and maintaining it to the end. Dave Long, Jr., is the leading scorer.

For the first half of the Junior Holy Name championship series the Dauntless Five won the honors. This five, captained by H. Schaefer, played a high class brand of basketball throughout the first period and rightly deserve the honors that have come to them. Donald Murphy holds the league record for points in a single game. Playing with the Tipperary Five Donald rolled up the big score of 32 points. Dan Joyce of Celtics, Jack Cashin of Emeralds, Schaefer and Johnny Boyle of Dauntless made 22 or more points in a single game. Cashin is the league's leading scorer and premier player.

On next Tuesday evening the league will begin its second half, the games being staged on the big court.

HARVESTING 13 INCH RIVER ICE

Knickerbocker Ice Company Starts Cutting Ice at Turkey Point—Have Men Busy at Esopus Scraping Ice—Quigley Getting Roundout Creek Field Ready.

The Knickerbocker Ice Company on Wednesday started the work of harvesting ice at Turkey Point on the Hudson river, and ice thirteen inches in thickness is being placed in the ice house there. The company also has a gang of men busy today scraping the ice fields at Esopus getting them in shape for the harvesting.

G. A. Quigley of Wilbur is getting the Roundout creek ice field opposite his ice house ready for harvesting, but work will not be started before next week. The ice averages 14 inches in thickness. For the past few days he had men busy scraping off the snow and ice and getting down to the clear water ice which he will harvest.

The Binnewater Lake Ice Company has been getting a fine quality of ice from the Binnewater Lake. Ice cutting is in progress at Covesack where the Knickerbocker Ice Company's 60,000 ton house at Rattlesnake Island is being filled with 13 inch ice.

A Birthday Party.

Tuesday evening a very pleasant birthday party was tendered Miss Carrie Every at her home, No. 12 Kilburg avenue. During the evening games were played and dancing enjoyed. At a late hour delectable refreshments were served. Miss Every was the recipient of a number of artistic gifts. The party broke up in the wee small hours and as the guests departed for their homes they voted Miss Every a royal entertainer. Atharacton Club.

On Wednesday evening at 6:30, the members of the Atharacton Club enjoyed their annual banquet in the private dining room of the Eagle Hotel. The table was artistically decorated with a basket centerpiece composed of corsage bouquets tied with dainty ribbons which extended to the various prettily placed cards. There were other floral decorations of carnations. At the close of the admirably served menu of delicious viands, each club member helped to despoil the attractive centerpiece by drawing one of the bouquets. At the close of the banquet the club adjourned to the home of Miss Margaret Loughran for the day's paper on "The Origins of Art," ably presented by Mrs. Hillis. Continuing the merry-making of the banquet, Miss Ruth Shafer entertained her sister members with an appropriate poem parodying one of Kipling's, and Mrs. Alfred Van Buren added further to the entertainment with story telling and costume dancing. It was all a most enjoyable affair. Next week the club will meet with Miss Shafer at her home on Albany avenue, the paper being "The Psychology of Religion."

MR. FOX AND MR. DOG

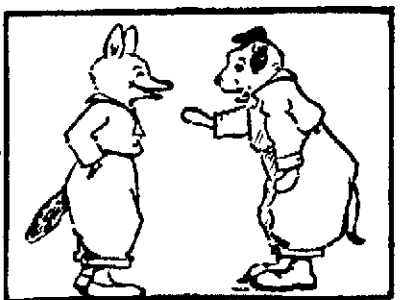

MR. FOX had a feast for some time because the farmer did not have a dog at the big farm on the hill, and then the window of the poultry house was broken, and left so, until one day the farmer discovered that all of his chickens and young fowl were gone.

Only the fowl, that were not tender to the liking of Mr. Fox were left. "I shall not visit that farm any more this season," said Mr. Fox as he trotted home one night. "I will be off to new hunting grounds tomorrow night."

One night, as he was on his way to another farm, Mr. Fox happened to pass the poultry house where he had found so many chickens. He looked up at the window and smiled to himself when he saw that a new pane of glass had been put in and there was no way for him or other Mr. Foxes to get in.

"He is too late with his repairs," said Mr. Fox as he trotted off "for I shall not bother him for some time to come."

Then one night Mr. Fox saw as he ran along the top of a stone wall, that the farmer had brought a Mr. Dog to live near the poultry house. "Ha! ha," laughed Mr. Fox. "You are too late to catch me, Mr. Dog. You should have been here some time ago if you were to save the farmer's poultry."

His laugh brought Mr. Dog out of his house with a bound, but Mr. Fox was out of his reach, so he did not jump or run away. "Mr. Dog," he

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

THE STAIRCASE WIT

For all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these, "It might have been."

THE unhappy faculty of not remembering the clever things that would have been so apt and so diverting if said in the drawing room until one is going downstairs—that is what the French call "l'esprit descendant," and the wit of the staircase. A good many people there are who can think of immensely clever things that they might have said, or that they would have said. It is another case of that bird in hand—it is far better to say something only moderately clever, and say it when the occasion comes, than to say nothing at all and think of the amazingly clever thing too late. There are some persons who not only think over what they said and what they might have said after it is too late, but then bore their friends by telling them what they might have said.

"I was thinking over what you said about admiring Barrie's plays last week. If I'd only thought of it at the time I would have asked you to use some tickets that I had. I couldn't, and as it was, they weren't used. But I didn't think of it till I got home." Or: "That story you told was a good one. After I got home and was thinking it over, I thought of another one. I know," and then follows a story that is only moderately humorous and has absolutely no bearing on the present trend of the conversation.

Many persons have difficulty in carrying on their end of small talk. They are always seeking advice and help on the subject. They buy books that promise to suggest subjects of conversation for every conceivable situation, and they lie awake nights before they are going to go to a social gathering of any sort, planning what clever things they can say. Then when the time comes they seem to be dazed, waiting for the situations that they have anticipated to crop up. They have a splendid story to tell about Wandering's Failing.

Man often introduces an element of disorder in nature. His work in deserting the land brings on floods and the opposite conditions of drought. He destroys the natural checks, and compensations.—John Burroughs.

said, "You should tell your master the old saying that it is too late to lock the stable door, after the horse is stolen."

"The stable door is locked and the horse is not stolen," said Mr. Dog, too surprised to bark. "I am here to see that you do not steal the chickens and other fowl. You just try it and see what happens," and Mr. Dog danced about, wishing he could reach Mr. Fox.

"Oh, you won't have any trouble from my visits for some time to come," replied Mr. Fox. "All the poultry your master has now are too old to tempt my appetite. I have had a feast, though, and I am glad for you that you will have an easy time of it, for none of my friends care for old poultry, either."

"But what do you mean by saying what you did about the stable and the horse being stolen?" inquired Mr. Dog.

"Did you never hear the old adage, 'When the horse is stolen it is too late to shut the stable door?'" answered Mr. Fox.

"I mean by that your master was too late in mending the broken window in the poultry house and bringing you here to protect the hens and chickens for I had already carried off all the best and youngest of them and those that are left are not worth taking. He has locked the door after the horse is stolen, don't you see?"

"Yes I do, Mr. Fox," replied Mr. Dog. "But you take this bit of advice from me. 'Hope is a good breakfast but a bad supper.' That is an old saying too. Think it over, because I am going to live here and if at any time you hope to get a breakfast from this farm you will take it out in hoping."

"Now I wonder what he meant by that," thought Mr. Fox, as he trotted off. "Anyhow, I shall not visit that place again. The hill is too long and steep to climb, and then I hate hidden meanings. Why couldn't he have said what he meant instead of trying to show off his wisdom?"

And away went Mr. Fox in, the moonlight, forgetting that he was the one who first tried to impress Mr. Dog with his cleverness.

camels, if only someone would guide the conversation to camels, and they have some inside bit of information about the camel. I won't someone please run in the larder?

Now if there is any help at all to this tongue-tiedness it is this: Remember that talking a clever part in the conversation means actual mental exertion. It means getting right into the ring and making your brain work. It means mental quickness. If you are not used to this sort of mental alertness you will perhaps actually find it fatiguing at first but it soon becomes a matter of course. There are pretty girls who think that all they have to do at a party is to look pretty. And there are some less pretty girls who realize that they have to use their wits to make up for less attractive faces, and somehow it is often these girls who have the most attention. And there are some conceited young men who seem to think that their personalities are sufficiently interesting to make up for all their lack of wit. They go to dinner parties content only to listen to what other people say and to eat the good dinner.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: Tall, thin, sleeves always look as if they had been puffed, trousers as if they had been slept in, shoes a bit gray, always carries a mussed newspaper and never seems to be up on the news. He always mildly smiles at you, agrees with you, beams on you, seems to settle back on you as if you were one of those new-type life preservers. He has a maddening job and you feel sure that if he would spruce up a bit he has the goods. He plays a rather good game of whist.

IN FACT

He is the wistful type that needs a new steering gear. Prescription for bride: Study the marine compass and know the chart of life. He is a good fellow, but needs the workmanship of the one and only compass—Love.

Absorb This: THE STEERING GEAR WITHOUT A CRANK WILL WORK WONDERS.

LONG-HANDLED NET IS HANDY

Matter of Capturing Chicken for Family Dinner Made Easy With Device Illustrated.

Who has not seen the farmer, his wife, the hired man and one or more children engaged in the exciting chase for the chicken which is to be served for the family dinner. All around the yard, over the fence, under the barn, through the garden, until somebody luckily falls upon it. An easier way is to make a long-handled net, using a sound, well-made barrel hoop. An old hammock makes a fine net for this purpose. The net should be about two feet deep. Lay it down, mouth up, put a few grains of corn on top, pretend you are looking the other way, and when a chicken steps on the net to pick out the corn, lift up suddenly, tip it slightly to one side, and you have the fowl safe. If you are particularly expert the net may be dropped down over the bird.

HEAD LICE INJURE TURKEYS

Grayish White Louse is Most Serious of All Parasites—Matted Lard Kills Parasites.

Turkeys, ducks and geese are more easily killed by the head lice than are other kinds of farm fowls. The lice are only one of the six or eight forms which bother poultry, but a single head louse has been known to kill a turkey. It is a grayish white louse, and the most serious of them all.

For treatment, dip the tip of the finger in melted lard and rub this well around the comb. Dip again and rub back of the ear, repeating for the other ear, the bill and jaw. This does not give the head a greasy appearance, but is enough to destroy the lice. A few drops of kerosene, carbolic acid or stock dip may be added to the lard, to make it more effective. The bird should be kept in a warm place for a couple of hours after this treatment has been given.

LIME SUPPLY FOR CHICKENS

Experiments Have Demonstrated That Other Minerals Will Not Take Its Place.

Feeding experiments with poultry conducted over a number of years in which an effort was made to substitute other mineral elements for lime in the ration are said to have demonstrated that other minerals will not take the place of lime and that if this element is lacking in the food the demands of the body will be met by drawing on the lime stored up in the bones and muscles of the fowl. It was also found that both lime and phosphorus are more easily taken from the bones of the living animal than from dead bone ash fed to the animal.

CURE FEATHER EATING HABIT

Indication That Fowls Are After Certain Classes of Foods They Are Not Getting.

The reason that fowls eat feathers is due to the fact that they are after certain classes of foods which they need but are not getting. This class of food is represented by any form of milk, tankage, meat scraps, cotton seed meal, peanut meal, or alfalfa pasturage. If one or more of the above feeds are furnished them in sufficient quantities they will get over this habit.

Good warm wheat makes a nice breakfast for the biddies.

A good layer has a large abdomen covered with soft pliable skin.

Use a little more clean litter on the floors. Keep the fowls hard at work. It is a form of health insurance.

The fancy poultry business pays well but good judgment must be exercised.

The flock that gets bonemeal and oyster shell will show few cases of leg weakness.

A good layer may be described as a hen having a soft, rich, red comb and wattles, a prominent head, good capacity, plenty of fat, a soft, pliable skin, and is well faded out.

Fowls that have been running out may have needed no grit and may even have got along without oyster shell, but now that they are confined all or much of the time, a supply of these important ingredients of the ration should not be neglected.

Talking Politics.

4—VAUDEVILLE ACTS

Duke of York & Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon

This is the first posed photograph of the Duke of York, second son of the British rulers, and his fiancée Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon to reach America. It was made in London shortly after the announcement of their engagement. The marriage, it is thought, will take place in April.

Mrs. James J. Davis & son

Mrs. Miles Pondexter, wife of the defeated United States Senator from Washington has stirred up a hornet's nest in Washington by public revelations of official secrets, in which she named wives of Cabinet secretaries as using Government automobiles, having the Marine Corps play for them and getting flowers from Government conservators of the women most stirred up is Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who is said by Mrs. Pondexter to have used Government automobiles on her shopping expeditions.

KINGSTON WINS
IN FINAL MINUTESKings Out Schenectady 34 to 33, in Hard Fought Contest—C. Powers
Is Big Scorer With 12 Points.

The local champions journeyed to Schenectady Wednesday evening and pulled out a winner by a close call score, 34 to 33. The game was one of the most desperately fought of the season and Referee Solodar as usual was the eleventh man in the battle. Schenectady led all the way in the first session and the first half saw the Morgenweck crew on the small end of a 21 to 19 tally.

During the closing period Kingston spurred, caught up to its opponents, had the lead for a time and was also behind. Within two minutes of closing time the upstarters had a one point lead and C. Powers did the trick with a pretty field goal giving Kingston the one point advantage; score 34 to 33. C. Powers was the big point getter of the evening, having a total of 12 to his credit. C. Husta was next for the Morgenweck clan with ten points.

2 GAMES AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

Friday evening at the high school gym two of the best basketball games that have been staged in amateur circles in this city for some time are scheduled. At 7 o'clock the second team representing the local school will engage the second team of Newburgh Academy. Both teams have some good material and a fast contest should reward those who turn out to see these teams in action.

At 8 o'clock the varsity team representing Kingston will take on the varsity team representing Newburgh Academy in what should be a fast, clean game. Kingston lost to Newburgh by four points at Newburgh and the followers of the Maroon and White are confident that their team will register the first win of the season tomorrow. It is expected that Mike Palen of Poughkeepsie will be the official in charge.
